1. Vision

Our vision is briefly outlined with these four keywords. This is the target group of people we want to be there for and work with.

We want to express God's character by rescuing people and helping them with their needs, providing perspective in crisis situations and providing preventative and sustainable support with practical tools. Training prepares not only professionals who provide assistance, but also those who receive assistance.

“Conscious of their responsibility (of one's responsibility) before God and man” is the basis in the Basic law of our country. It also encourages us to take part in social life and shape community life. People should be helped in crisis situations, motivated and encouraged to act collectively.

2. Purpose of founding

Providing help for civilian victims.

Providing and upholding rescue from life-threatening.

Fire protection and prevention, occupational safety, natural disaster and civil protection, as well as accident prevention.

Providing civic engagement for charitable, beneficent and church purposes.

Selfless support for people whose economic situation has become an emergency for special reasons.

3. Civil commitment

Conscious of their responsibility before God and man

(Basic Law Preamble)

“But seek the welfare of the city”

(see Bibel Jeremiah 29:7)

Our actions are guided by the Basic Law and the Bible. We are convinced that a value-orientation towards the Bible and prayer lead to hopeful action. This in turn motivates us to act in a social and diaconal manner and to promote a sense of community.

In the spirit of civic responsibility, communities, companies or associations can book first aid courses with us, among other things.

Rescue-Prayer

The Rescue - Prayers are a cross-denominational network that operates throughout Germany. In addition to monthly online meetings to intercede for emergency services during events that could cause damage (such as demonstrations and natural disasters), prayer missions are also held on site.

Training

Our training topics include gaining the perspective and understanding of emergency services and their rights and responsibilities. We would like to raise awareness of the resulting tensions and the associated challenges faced by emergency services during demonstrations, disasters and accidents. All of this is intended to help you behave appropriately as an intercessor in place.

Community civil defense

“The state assistance system intervenes in emergency situations, such as the consequences of the heavy rains in Germany in June 2021, and then offers support. But even the best help is not always available straight away. In the case of large-scale damage, the rescue workers cannot be everywhere at the same time. Those who are prepared can help themselves, relatives and neighbors until government help arrives and reduce damage with protective measures. Help us deal with emergency situations together and take precautions!”

Federal office for civil protection and disaster assistance

Due to the Civil Defense requirement that every person should take precautions, we provide suggestions and offer seminars on the topic of stockpiling and behavior in crisis situations. We want to enable people to remain optimistic and look to the future with hope. Please contact us for current seminars.

5. Network

Our network is made up of a wide variety of relief organizations, prayer movements, professionals, businesses and individuals who do their part to help people in emergency and preventative situations. In this way we also promote collaboration between organizations and operations.

Our work is not only to connect skilled workers with those who need help or provide specialized knowledge and the necessary equipment, but also to come into contact with local community and build relationships. In this way, we see not only the project, but also the people, and meet their social and psychological needs.
